

Report of Operative G T Purdy. 105.1202
New Brunswick, N.J.
Sept. 28th, 1926
GTP/Glynn
Interview with: MRS. GLYNN, who with her husband lived on the Gibson farm at one time.

Operative went to the home of Mrs. Rolowitch, #10 Maple Street and made inquiries about Mrs. Glynn who works there. Was informed that Mrs. Glynn was in the cellar washing clothes.

Operative went down to the cellar and interviewed Mrs. Glynn, who is deaf, and operative could not make himself understood. Operative then wrote questions on a piece of paper, which she answered.

Operative asked her if she ever did any washing for Snappy Erling, she replied that she did not. Operative asked her if she knew Erling and she replied that she does, and that he is known in the neighborhood where she does her washing.

Operative asked her if she ever saw Erling on the Gibson Farm while she and her husband lived there, and she stated that he was never there while she was there. Operative asked Mrs. Glynn how much money Mrs. Gibson owes to her husband, and she stated that Mrs. Gibson owes Mr. Glynn $280.

Operative asked her if she knows Cecil Battle. She replied that he is the one who brought her and her husband out there. Operative asked her if she ever heard that Battle had been intimate with Mrs. Gibson and she stated that she heard it was so.

Operative asked her what type of woman Mrs. Gibson is and she replied that "she is a damn liar." She then refused to answer any more questions as she did not want to get mixed up in the case and for the further reason that she does not know anything more about the Gibson woman or Erling anyway.

Operative tried to locate Herbert Flemming, who did live at 105 Richardson St. and learned that he moved somewhere on Georges Road, but no one knew the address.

Respectfully submitted:
